

Room no. 04

01.

These days you can hear- "you are not oxygen".Primarily in movies after a heart-wrenching breakup. Well, it throbs but the pain is short-lived and what's inevitable is Death without oxygen which we get for free.Fertility is something that allows mankind to thrive. In legends and myths, he/she is the supreme commander of both of the above. Also the protector of mankind and furious to the evil at the same time.Name him/her.

02.

An infant nursed by a goat and guarded by young warriors, who clattered their weapons to belie the baby's cries. The reason was- his father was insecure that one of his children will depose him, so he decided to gulp his children. In legends and myths, the same child became the baron of all deities. Can you spell his name?

03.

In legends and myths, it is said that what started as disrespecting goddess of discord ended in a war among humans which wasn't so much human folly as it was the pettiness of the gods. Can you name the war?
