

Room no. 03

01.

A five- to ten-times-larger animal that became extinct owing to climate change and a shortage of viable prey that had previously gone extinct. Hundreds of teeth discovered in the La Brea tar pits in California have been used to update the picture of this Ice Age emblem, whose look is based on the ancient feliform (carnivoran) family Nimravidae. Let's make a guess at the breed.

02.

A gift from God, but squandered by those of us who stay in Reunion, plump at times, skinny at others. It was used to portray an old Mascarenes king's stutter. These fictional characters were brave and courageous, allowing them to confront mankind without fear. Make a guess about the fabled creatures.

03.

It was impossible for the recalcitrant kernel to mulch more from generation to generation. Producing lubricant from inside the woody capsule benefited humans to a considerable extent. It has a pale undersurface of fronds and infantile shoots are coated with white hairs. It is designated after the island in the southern Atlantic Ocean where it originated. Its till is causing substantial soil erosion and a loss of plant cover. Investigate the clues and figure out what species it is.
